

April 29, 2011 QUILT SAMPLER TOUR IN SULLIVAN COUNTY

History, a Stitch at a Time – Fourth in a series of “Quilt Sampler” Tours following the Quilt Trail

Yes, it is time for our Fourth Quilt Sampler Tour. We have tallied all of the comments and the request from our Inaugural Tour and it has been decided that the next tour in our series of tours following this ancient art will be Central Sullivan County.

Northeast Tennessee's rich history and heritage fits together like the pieces of a quilt and is brought to life as you follow the Quilt Trail. We do many private tours for motor coach groups from out of state but we want to share this same rich history with the people right in our own community.

April 29, 2011 is the date for our fourth “Quilt Sampler” ~ We will pick you in the Ingles Grocery Parking Lot located conveniently just North of Interstate 81 Exit 59 in Colonial Heights to begin our back roads adventure. Our private motor coach will depart the site at 9:00 AM. We make stops at the historic Newland Farm in the Arcadia Community, the Smith Family Farm and both Earhart Farms. We will have exclusive tours of Yancey's Tavern and Aunt Willie's Wildflowers where we will enjoy a catered lunch before returning to our starting point.

Be ready to see historic family quilts and hear the stories that make them special. You will see vanishing American landmarks such as historic homes and Century Farms. Hear the stories about how one of the quilts was inspired by a tiny fragment of a quilt found behind a wall and another was recently found after decades in hiding. Relax and enjoy a meal with new friends.

Remember that your participation in the Quilt Sampler Tour Series protect our beautiful and historic Farms and the scenic land surrounding them.
