

Continue piecing the sections until the block is completed.

Set the insides of the window in place. They are the same as the squares I started with. In this case, they are 5" squares.

Now form the cathedral window by pulling the fabric inward.

To complete the cathedral window, pull the black fabric inward to form the leading around each section of the cathedral window.

I didn't sew them down until it was time to quilt my purple and gray wall hanging, then that served as the quilting. For my quilt, I am going to quilt the blocks as I go and then deal with the seams on the back of my quilt. I just don't think any other kind of quilting would look right with a cathedral window.
